The China-Pakistan Study Centre (CPSC)

China is the second largest economy of the world and emerging global power. Given the traditional warm and friendly relations between Pakistan and China, it is important to learn about China. Considering the evolving regional and global scenarios, the establishment of a centre of excellence devoted to study China's policies and its impact on Pakistan and the region assumes added importance. The aim of the China-Pakistan Study Centre (CPSC) is to carry out a dedicated and comprehensive research about China's role in the region and the world and see how it affects Pakistan. The Centre can serve as a forum for learning about Chinese society, history, culture, politics, economy, and government. The Centre provides policy inputs to the Government of Pakistan on China-Pakistan relations as well as to act as a service-provider for business match-making between the two countries.
